

Guide of authors:

All submitted manuscript will be preliminary checked by technical editor to determine whether it is properly prepared. Manuscript that are not prepared in accordance with author instructions will be returned to the authors for revision and resubmission. Afterwards, the technical editor will be checking every manuscript by iTheniticate similarity detection service. iTheniticate reports and manuscripts will be sent to editor-in-chief or editors to preliminary consideration. They will determine whether the manuscript fits the scope of the journal and whether it has scientific importance. Based on iTheniticate reports and preliminary evaluation, the editor-in-chief or editors will decide whether the manuscript will be sent to peer-Review or rejected.

All manuscripts that have passed the initial inspection will be assigned to independent reviewers to peer review. The reviewers that were suggested by the authors can also be considered, but they should not have published with any of the authors. Editor-in-chief or editors give comments about the manuscripts, too. Based on the comments and referee's reports will be make decision to accept, revise (minor and major revision) or reject. The revised papers will be considered by editor-in-chief or editors. Final decision about accepting or rejecting will be verified by editor-in chief
